V3 Realty Serves as Development Manger for Elim's New Life Skills Center

WOODRIDGE, Ill --- On May 17, 2007, Elim Christian Service held a dedication for Adult Service, a new Life Skills Center, in Crestwood. The new Life Skills Centers reflects Elim's vision – as being an expert and outstanding ministry in the field of special needs services – and equips them to put their knowledge and expertise into practice with a state-of-the-art adult services facility.

This new center exemplifies Elim's ability to capitalize on 59 years of expertise in serving people with disabilities. The structure's design maximizes staff efficiency, requiring less investment in staff while increasing the capacity to serve up to 120 adults with disabilities. The new center also utilizes many eco-friendly building techniques, increasing energy savings and reducing energy costs over the long term. It is one of two buildings serving over 190 adults with developmental disabilities at Elim.

The new building provides over 29,000 square feet of opportunity for programs including vocational, developmental skills, and other training opportunities.

V3 Realty acted as the development manager responsible for the project; Eckenoff Saunders Architects was the project designer and Executive Construction Inc. was the General Contractor. "The team felt a tremendous pride in helping the extraordinary people who are a part of the Elim community," said Patrick Fox, Principal at V3 Realty, LLC.
